The Heroes of Houston Didn’t Look for Excuses

Our hearts and prayers go out to those in Texas and beyond affected last year by Hurricane Harvey. We hope for many, still, that they can get their lives back to normal as quickly as possible. While the storm and aftermath is one of the most devastating in US history, we can draw a lot of inspiration from the countless acts of kindness and heroism, some of which we know about and many which we don’t know about.

Jim McIngvale is known to everyone in Houston as “Mattress Mack.” He owns two giant furniture showrooms in the Houston area. When the floods started to come, he sent out trucks to pick people up and shelter them. He fed them, housed them and they slept them on his merchandise, no matter how wet or dirty they were coming in from the flood.

Dr. Stephen Kimmel, a pediatric surgeon, was called by the local hospital that a 16 year old patient of his needed emergency surgery. Despite his own home beginning to flood, he left his family and started driving to the hospital. Along the way, he had to stop because of the rising waters. He was rescued by two volunteer firemen and the three of them canoed as close as they could to the hospital. He walked the last mile in water up to his waist. He walked into the hospital drenched, changed into his scrubs, and saved the teen’s life.

In 2005, when Hurricane Katrina hit, a group of people calling themselves the Cajun Navy spring into action. These were volunteers with boats who went around flooded areas rescuing people. Twelve years later, this group is organized and when the storm hit, a convoy of volunteers from Louisiana drove nine hours with boats in tow to aid in the rescue effort. This group was also the inspiration for the “Texas Navy,” the thousands of local volunteers driving around on boats rescuing those who are trapped.

And many others found that their substance, their homes and their persons were saved as if by a miracle. G-d’s love for us cannot be beaten down by a mere hurricane.

The US is becoming increasingly divided along political lines and the discord is palpable. Yet in times of need, it is encouraging to know that we, as a country, are able to put on the hat and help others in need. The outpouring of help, well beyond the call of duty. The heroes could have easily called this situation of excuses not to help. The Gemara RH 17a implies that HaShem will treat us the same way we treat other. If we want to help us we should all try to make the extra effort to help those who need us, even if they are not our closest friends and even if we have justifiable reasons to turn the other way.

May we, in full cognizance of our inadequacy, place our hopes in the promises of the Almighty, and so doing, keep our hearts constantly open to His children, our fellow-creatures, who need our assistance.

In short, a hurricane of this sort highlights Judaism’s ever-present optimism and its reaffirmation of Hope. Nature may go berserk, but G-d’s love for us, and the spark G-dliness within us that remains constant and enduring.

Judy and I wish all of our worshipers and friends a good and sweet year. May all the thoughts and prayers at the holiday table and synagogue lead to blessings of health, happiness, and peace for Kl ay Yisroel and all of mankind.

- Rabbi Aryeh Scheinberg

A Message from the President

Dear fellow congregants,

   On behalf of my family and the dedicated Rodfei staff, Shanah Tovah to you and your loved ones. As we welcome a new year and prepare to account for ourselves in the year to end, I want to share with you my thoughts on the state of Rodfei as well as the initiatives and priorities for the new year and beyond.

   Services and quality programming have been the essentials in bringing our congregants together as a community. With respect to programming, our monthly publications describe an increasing number of classes and other programs. With the arrival of Rabbi Moshe Rosenwasser, our offerings for elementary and middle school kids have been enhanced. Torah studies, guest scholars, holiday events, and socials have been offered. We are exploring women’s classes, lunch with rabbis, and other new programs in order to continue to increase our offerings and improve their quality.

   Finances are a constant challenge for synagogues. Dues, programming revenues, annual donations, and fundraisers do not cover the costs of running the synagogue, and they are not all stable sources of funds. While Rodfei faces these challenges, we have been fortunate to have a few generous donors and to add another source of revenue. Thanks to congregant Dave Fisher, we have developed a significant revenue source from bingo franchises. While our financial position is currently stable due to these various sources of funds, we must look forward and plan to insure sustainable funding of our shul’s operations and initiatives.

   To this end, the Rodfei staff and Board will soon begin to work on putting together a long term vision and funding plan. This plan will address a variety of long term funding opportunities including endowments which the Board of Directors has already started exploring.

   Other initiatives for the coming year will be directed to growing our membership and insuring your experience at the shul is the best it can be. As our membership ages, I feel it is important to have an ongoing effort to attract new congregants. Rabbi Avraham and I will be working on formulating and implementing a plan for this. I ask that you help us in this endeavor. If you meet newcomers to San Antonio or other families living here who you feel could potentially join our community, please encourage them to join us for an event or services and contact Rabbi Avraham or myself so we can reach out to them.

   Security at Rodfei is an ongoing initiative and we will continue to invest in training and technology to keep our campus safe. I ask all congregants to be vigilant and report anything suspicious you may observe on the campus to any member of the security team. I would also ask all parents of young children to ensure their kids are supervised and that they are not wandering on the campus alone.

   In closing, I want to thank the Rabbi, Rabbi Avraham, the officers and staff for their hard work and support of me in the service of the congregation. Their dedication to the synagogue is inspiring. I also want to express my appreciation to the congregation. So many of you have approached and encouraged me after hearing that I would be joining the other officers and staff of the shul. I wish you all the best for the new year.

       - Jack Avigael

Thank you to: Dr. Morris Spector, Saul Golubcow & Hedwig Teglasi, Mr. & Mrs. Victor Teglasi, Betty Teglasi, and Yehuda Zinnreich for sponsoring the magnet calendar for 5779.

Rodfei Sholom’s Movie Night
The Insult
Sunday, October 7 at 7:30 pm

In today’s Beirut, a civilian dispute blown out of proportion finds Tony (Adel Karam), a Lebanese Christian, and Yasser (Kamel El Basha), a Palestinian refugee, facing off in court. As the media circus surrounding the case threatens a social explosion in divided Lebanon, Tony and Yasser reconsider their values and beliefs as revelations of trauma complicate their understanding of one another.

“The Insult” is a fascinating history lesson. It is also a reminder that resentment and hatred don’t necessarily recede when the fighting stops. People have long memories, and so do groups whose identities rest in part on seeing one another as enemies. – The NY Times

First Wednesday of the Month
Sept. 5 at 7:00 p.m.

We are discussing the book version of The Shawl by Cynthia Ozick which includes both the short story “The Shawl” and the novella “Rosa.” When read together, these two works complement each other in a very powerful way.

In both “The Shawl” and “Rosa,” the idea of “magic” is linked to the shawl. Yet, these works are grounded in realism, and (following Ozick’s principles concerning literature) each conveys deep moral meaning.
